

Deputy NAKAE delivered remarks at UNDP “Stakeholder Engagement To Develop Gender-responsive Educational Products/Material on Disaster-resistant Boatbuilding in Barbados”

On August 28, 2025, Mr. NAKAE Arata, Deputy Chief of Mission, delivered remarks at the United Nations Development Programme’s (UNDP) “Stakeholder Engagement To Develop Gender-responsive Educational Products/Material on Disaster-resistant Boatbuilding in Barbados”.

This event is part of the “Barbados Coastal Fisheries Resilience Project”, supported by Japan with USD 2.93 million to aid the recovery of the fishery sector following the devastating impact of Hurricane Beryl in 2024.

Mr. NAKAE highlighted the hardworking men and women of Barbados’ fishing communities, thanked UNDP for their dedication, and commended the Government of Barbados for its leadership and vision in advancing sustainable development.
